cent return from abroad of the chief executive officer of the National Lead Trust appears to have impaired fresh vitality to its business. The market for the stock of the National American Cotton Oil Company seems to have received confidence in that company's ability to meet its obligations. The Sugar Trust, the only railway stock besides Rock Island that remains in the hands of the Union Pacific, London was the heaviest buyer of it. Pending its operations, it was said, upon the part of the Sugar Trust, the financial funding bill will be passed at the present session of Congress. The most trustworthy advice from Washington, do not support that view. The Sugar Trust, however, is the only one that attained prominence in the dealings of the market during the year, and caused the list to lose the greater portion of its importance; still the closing was firm and the average of final prices a little better than that of the previous year.
